TO THE READER.

FOR several Years
last past, having traded in Books, it has often hapned, that I have been at a Loss, when; by Gentlemen, (either whose Profession induced, or their Curiosity inclined them to buy Books on that Subject) an Account hath been demanded of me of all the Law - Books Extant.

Now, for avoiding the Trouble which for the future Booksellers might undergo in such case ; but more especially for Satisfaction of those who are desirous to be informed therein , I have Collected the ensuing Catalogue ; whereby the Reader will be informed of all the Law - Books now Extant , which directly, or more remotely concern the Common and

To the Reader.

Statute Law of this Realm, and of the best Editions and Prices, &c. of the same. In doing of which, I had the kind Assistance of some Gentlemen of the Profession of the Law.

Besides the Encouragement I had from some,
to whom I imparted my Intentions concerning this Catalogue, when it was onely in Design, and the Inducements I touched before, I apprehended, That by this Collection some Advantage would redound to such, as living remote from London, are by Specious Titles trepann'd in to the buying of some Law - Books, before they are assured whether (in truth) the Discourse tends, which how frequently it happens, Experience sufficiently convinces.

The Method I have used, and the placing Books under the Titles
I

To the Reader.

I have disposed them, may probably be disliked by some; however, the Catalogue not being very long, the whole may be soon read over, which will cure the Fault. And the Ends I aim at, will (I hope) excuse the Attempt, and my Errors in the Performance of it.

Tho. Bassett.
